

Darren Zook
University of California, Berkeley
zookeeper@berkeley.edu

Global Hotspots: The Newest Chapter

There is no shortage of crises in the world, and every year seems to bring new problems into focus. Continuing from the first two versions of this course, Global Hotspots Part 3 will introduce a whole new line-up of areas creating turbulence in global politics. Each week we will examine a different case-study in depth, looking not only at foundational causes of the crisis but also regional impacts and possible outcomes. The new case studies will be Ukraine, Ethiopia, Northern Ireland, Taiwan, and Iran. One lecture will also be devoted to updates on case-studies from previous versions of this course.

Week One

Ukraine

Week Two

Ethiopia

Week Three

Northern Ireland

Week Four

Taiwan

Week Five

Iran

Week Six

Updates on countries/areas from previous Global Hotspots, and potential candidates for the next installment